

Backer Suite (Room 101)

WALDORF
ASTORIA
AMSTERDAM

History

Backer Suite; named after the Backer family, which was responsible for 17th century signature painted ceiling in the living room. The painted ceiling with angels looking down to us from the skies.

They exemplify the variety and richness of paintings in the days of our most famous painter, Rembrandt.

This house was built in 1665 for Cornelis Backer, a member of the prominent Protestant Backer family. Many other important families have lived here since the beginning.

Experience indulgence and opulent décor in this suite, overlooking the canal. The suite offers six distinct zones in which guests can sleep, relax, work and dress in style.
